CAREERS FOR

Marketing Management

MAJORS

Anderson School of Management offers a Bachelor of Business Administration with different concentrations. ASM’s BBA offers a concentration in Marketing Management. Marketing is essentially the act of selling products or promoting services of a business. This can include research and advertising. Individuals in marketing also have a focus on creating, developing, pricing, and promoting products/services to meet the customer’s needs.

Individuals working in marketing utilize skills such as communication, leadership, creativity, research, presentation skills, etc. Marketing is closely related to the sales industry, so individuals in the marketing field should understand the skills related to sales as well. Students who are interested in Marketing Management may also be interested in the dual concentration for marketing and operations.
